Some, any and no in English A1

Identify the noun, decide whether it is countable or uncountable, then choose the polarity pattern that matches the statement, question, offer or negative.

META DE LA LECCIÓN

Use some, any and no with countable and uncountable nouns in accurate A1 sentences.

MODELO

We have some apples. Do we have any milk? We do not have any milk. We have no milk.

Al terminar podrás

1. Use some in ordinary affirmatives
2. Use any in questions and negatives
3. Use some in offers and requests
4. Avoid double negatives with no

01 · COMPRENDER

La idea esencial

Some, any and no organise basic quantity across statements, questions, negatives, offers and requests. The lesson connects determiner choice with countability and polarity so learners avoid double negatives and unnatural literal translations.

Build the central contrast

The lesson is organised around a small set of choices that produce different meanings. Start from meaning, then locate the grammatical slot that carries that meaning. This keeps the sentence understandable and avoids a word-for-word transfer from Spanish.

Compare the complete examples rather than memorising an isolated word. The surrounding subject, verb, noun type and communicative purpose explain why the selected form is appropriate.

Context	Model	Control
Affirmative plural	We have some apples.	Some introduces an unspecified positive quantity.
Affirmative mass	There is some water.	Water is uncountable.
Neutral question	Do you have any questions?	Any is usual in a neutral question.

Read the sentence purpose

A statement, question, negative, offer or answer can activate a different form. Start from meaning, then locate the grammatical slot that carries that meaning. This keeps the sentence understandable and avoids a word-for-word transfer from Spanish.

Compare the complete examples rather than memorising an isolated word. The surrounding subject, verb, noun type and communicative purpose explain why the selected form is appropriate.

Context	Model	Control
Negative	We do not have any milk.	Not + any forms the negative.
No + affirmative	We have no milk.	No combines with an affirmative verb.
Offer	Would you like some tea?	Some is natural when offering something.

Control agreement and noun form

The selected structure must still agree with its subject or noun. Start from meaning, then locate the grammatical slot that carries that meaning. This keeps the sentence understandable and avoids a word-for-word transfer from Spanish.

Compare the complete examples rather than memorising an isolated word. The surrounding subject, verb, noun type and communicative purpose explain why the selected form is appropriate.

Context	Model	Control
Request	Can I have some water?	Some is common in a request expecting availability.
Plural agreement	There are some chairs.	Plural chairs uses are.
Singular count	Is there a café nearby?	A asks about one singular café.

Use the pattern in real interaction

Short exchanges reveal whether the structure sounds complete and purposeful. Start from meaning, then locate the grammatical slot that carries that meaning. This keeps the sentence understandable and avoids a word-for-word transfer from Spanish.

Compare the complete examples rather than memorising an isolated word. The surrounding subject, verb, noun type and communicative purpose explain why the selected form is appropriate.

Context	Model	Control
Any + plural	Are there any buses now?	Any combines with plural buses.
No + singular mass	There is no information.	No directly determines information.
Question meaning	Is there any bread left?	A neutral availability question uses any.

Compare nearby forms

Similar-looking alternatives are not interchangeable when polarity, logic or position changes. Start from meaning, then locate the grammatical slot that carries that meaning. This keeps the sentence understandable and avoids a word-for-word transfer from Spanish.

Compare the complete examples rather than memorising an isolated word. The surrounding subject, verb, noun type and communicative purpose explain why the selected form is appropriate.

Context	Model	Control
Affirmative mass	There is some water.	Water is uncountable.
Neutral question	Do you have any questions?	Any is usual in a neutral question.
Negative	We do not have any milk.	Not + any forms the negative.

Repair the Spanish transfer

The English frame may encode the same idea with a different operator, determiner or word order. Start from meaning, then locate the grammatical slot that carries that meaning. This keeps the sentence understandable and avoids a word-for-word transfer from Spanish.

Compare the complete examples rather than memorising an isolated word. The surrounding subject, verb, noun type and communicative purpose explain why the selected form is appropriate.

Context	Model	Control
No + affirmative	We have no milk.	No combines with an affirmative verb.
Offer	Would you like some tea?	Some is natural when offering something.
Request	Can I have some water?	Some is common in a request expecting availability.

Connect two decisions

A natural sentence often combines form, meaning and reference rather than testing one blank in isolation. Start from meaning, then locate the grammatical slot that carries that meaning. This keeps the sentence understandable and avoids a word-for-word transfer from Spanish.

Compare the complete examples rather than memorising an isolated word. The surrounding subject, verb, noun type and communicative purpose explain why the selected form is appropriate.

Plural agreement	There are some chairs.	Plural chairs uses are.
Singular count	Is there a café nearby?	A asks about one singular café.

Context	Model	Control
Any + plural	Are there any buses now?	Any combines with plural buses.

Run the final audit

Before approving the sentence, reconstruct the intended meaning and check every visible dependency. Start from meaning, then locate the grammatical slot that carries that meaning. This keeps the sentence understandable and avoids a word-for-word transfer from Spanish.

From controlled form to real A1 communication

A learner controls Some, any and no only when the form survives outside a single model sentence. Begin with the central contrast, rebuild it with a new subject and new vocabulary, and then place it inside a short exchange. The structure should remain accurate while the communicative details change.

Use a three-part review. First, name the intended meaning. Second, point to the word or position that carries that meaning. Third, read the whole sentence and check whether reference, agreement and register still fit the situation. This review turns a correct answer into a reusable A1 skill.

Do not judge the target form in isolation. Read the words immediately before and after it, identify the subject and the finite verb, and reconstruct the positive or neutral sentence when useful. This local context often explains an ending, an auxiliary, a determiner or a position that would otherwise seem arbitrary.

For independent study, complete one short stage at a time and record the reason for every correction. A useful note has three parts: the form you wrote, the form the sentence requires and the decision that separates them. Revisit that decision with a new example within twenty-four hours, then read both examples aloud and compare their rhythm with confidence.

Stage	Action	Success evidence
Recognise	identify the target decision	explains the meaning
Rebuild	change subject or vocabulary	keeps the pattern
Use	place it in a mini-dialogue	sounds complete
Review	correct and explain	names the controlling rule

La regla de una sola mirada

FÓRMULA

noun type -> sentence purpose -> some / any / no -> singular or plural noun

Decide en este orden

1. Identify the noun.
2. Check countability.
3. Decide statement, question or negative.
4. Use some for a positive unspecified quantity.
5. Use any in neutral questions and negatives.
6. Keep some in offers and requests when availability is expected.
7. Use no with an affirmative verb.
8. Check noun number and meaning.

Decision	Pattern	Example
Affirmative plural	some	We have some apples.
Affirmative mass	some	There is some water.
Neutral question	any	Do you have any questions?
Negative	any	We do not have any milk.
No + affirmative	no	We have no milk.
Offer	some	Would you like some tea?
Request	some	Can I have some water?
Plural agreement	are	There are some chairs.
Singular count	a	Is there a café nearby?

Errores frecuentes

× I have any friends. -> I have some friends.

× I don’t have no time. -> I don’t have any time.

× Do you want any coffee? is possible, but some is warmer in an offer.

× There is some chairs. -> There are some chairs.
