Cuantificadores en Inglés B1

Domina los cuantificadores del inglés B1 para expresar cantidades con precisión y naturalidad.

META DE LA LECCIÓN

Elegir el cuantificador correcto según si el sustantivo es contable o incontable, y según el contexto (positivo, negativo, pregunta).

MODELO

I have a few friends in Seoul. / There is very little time left. / He has too much work. / Not enough students passed the exam.

Al terminar podrás

1. Distingues few/a few (contables) de little/a little (incontables) y sus matices de significado
2. Usas many/much para preguntas y negaciones, y a lot of/lots of en afirmativas
3. Aplicas enough + sustantivo y enough + adjetivo/adverbio, y too + adjetivo
4. Usas both/either/neither/all/each/every correctamente con sustantivos singulares y plurales

01 · COMPRENDER

La idea esencial

Los cuantificadores expresan cantidad sin dar un número exacto. En B1 debes dominar few/a few con contables, little/a little con incontables, many/much vs a lot of, enough y too, y los cuantificadores universales both/either/neither/all/each/every. Son fundamentales en IELTS y Cambridge.

Few vs a few, little vs a little: la distinción clave

Few y little significan "casi ninguno / casi nada" — transmiten una idea negativa. A few y a little significan "algunos / un poco" — transmiten una idea positiva o neutra. La diferencia está en el artículo "a".

Few se usa con sustantivos contables en plural: "She has few opportunities in that city" (casi ninguna, es una situación difícil). A few también con contables: "She has a few ideas to share" (algunas, es positivo). Little con incontables: "We have little time" (casi nada). A little con incontables: "Give me a little time" (un poco, es posible).

Cuantificador	Tipo de sustantivo	Matiz	Ejemplo
few	contable plural	casi ninguno (negativo)	Few students passed the exam.
a few	contable plural	algunos (positivo)	I have a few suggestions.
little	incontable	casi nada (negativo)	There is little hope.
a little	incontable	un poco (positivo)	I need a little help.

Many, much y a lot of: cuándo usar cada uno

Many se usa con sustantivos contables en plural. Much se usa con sustantivos incontables. Ambos son más formales y aparecen principalmente en oraciones negativas y preguntas: "How many languages do you speak?" / "I don't have much experience." / "There aren't many options."

En oraciones afirmativas, el inglés hablado prefiere a lot of (o lots of, más informal) tanto con contables como con incontables: "She has a lot of friends." / "We spent a lot of money." / "There are lots of opportunities in that field." En writing formal (IELTS, Cambridge) a lot of también es correcto.

Enough y too: suficiencia y exceso

Enough expresa suficiencia. Cuando va con un sustantivo, precede al sustantivo: "There is enough food for everyone." / "Do we have enough time?" Cuando va con un adjetivo o adverbio, va DESPUÉS del adjetivo: "She is confident enough to present." / "He didn't work hard enough."

Too expresa exceso y tiene connotación negativa. Too va antes del adjetivo o adverbio: "The water is too hot to drink." / "He drives too fast." Too much + incontable: "There is too much noise." Too many + contable plural: "There are too many people in this lift." Not enough significa "insufficient": "There aren't enough seats."

Both, either, neither, all, each, every: cuantificadores universales

Both (los dos / ambos) se usa con plural: "Both students passed." / "I like both options." Either (cualquiera de los dos / o uno o el otro) en afirmativas: "You can take either road." Neither (ninguno de los dos) es la negación de both: "Neither answer is correct."

All + plural (todo el grupo): "All students must attend." / "All the information is here." Each + singular (énfasis individual): "Each student has a different learning style." Every + singular (énfasis colectivo): "Every student in the class improved." La diferencia entre each y every es sutil: each enfatiza los individuos por separado; every enfatiza el grupo completo.

¿Cuál es la diferencia entre "much", "many" y "a lot of"?

"much" con incontables ("much money"), "many" con contables plurales ("many people"), sobre todo en preguntas y negaciones. En afirmativas se prefiere "a lot of", que sirve para ambos ("a lot of money", "a lot of friends").

¿Cómo se usan "too", "too much/many" y "enough"?

"too" + adjetivo = demasiado ("too expensive"). "too much" + incontable / "too many" + contable = demasiado/s ("too much sugar", "too many cars"). "enough" = suficiente, va antes del sustantivo ("enough time") pero después del adjetivo ("big enough").

¿Cuál es la diferencia entre "few/little" y "a few/a little"?

"a few" (contable) y "a little" (incontable) tienen sentido positivo: "algunos, un poco" ("a few friends", "a little time"). Sin "a", "few" y "little" tienen sentido negativo: "casi ninguno, casi nada" ("few people came", "little hope").

La regla de una sola mirada

few/a few + countable plural / little/a little + uncountable / many/much in negatives and questions / a lot of + both

Decide en este orden

1. few (casi ninguno, negativo) vs a few (algunos, positivo): "She has few friends" (casi ninguno) vs "She has a few friends" (algunos, es positivo)

2. little (casi nada, negativo) vs a little (un poco, positivo): "I have little money" (casi nada) vs "I have a little money" (un poco, suficiente para algo)

3. many + contables en preguntas y negaciones: "How many students?" / "Not many people came."

4. much + incontables en preguntas y negaciones: "How much time do we have?" / "I don't have much patience."

5. a lot of / lots of: usados en afirmativas con contables e incontables: "She has a lot of experience."

6. enough + sustantivo: "There is enough food." / adj/adv + enough: "She is old enough to vote."

7. too + adjetivo/adverbio (exceso negativo): "The coffee is too hot." / too much + incontable / too many + contable

Cuantificador	Con sustantivo	Ejemplo
few / a few	contable plural	few students / a few ideas
little / a little	incontable	little time / a little help

Errores frecuentes

× "I have few money." "I have little money." — money es incontable: usa little, no few.

× "There are much cars." "There are many cars." / "There is a lot of traffic." — many con contables, much con incontables.

× "It's enough hot." "It's hot enough." — enough va DESPUÉS del adjetivo cuando modifica adjetivos.

04 · SOLUCIONES

Corrige y explica la regla

En respuestas abiertas, compara primero la estructura objetivo y después el vocabulario.

1. a little — "time" es incontable a little (un poco, suficiente para algo positivo): "a little time".
2. many — "students" es contable plural many en oraciones negativas: "Not many students".
3. too — "too" expresa exceso negativo: the coffee is too hot (no puedo tomarlo). Va antes del adjetivo.
4. enough — Adjetivo + enough: "confident enough". Enough va DESPUÉS del adjetivo.
5. much — "money" es incontable "How much money?" Much se usa en preguntas con incontables.
6. Both — "Both options are good" = las dos son buenas. Both + plural para referirse a dos cosas positivamente.
7. too — "too many people" = exceso negativo de personas contables. Too many + contable plural.
8. Every — "Every student" enfatiza el grupo completo: todos sin excepción. Every + singular.
9. a few / little — "books" es contable a few (algunos, positivo): I have a few good grammar books. "time" es incontable little (casi nada, negativo): little time to read them.
10. Few / much — "buses" es contable Few (casi ninguno, negativo): Few buses arrive on time. "There isn't much we can do" much en negación con incontable (thing/action).
11. too many / just — "things" es contable too many things (exceso: demasiadas cosas). "just too much" = simplemente demasiado. Intensifica la afirmación.
12. Both / neither — "Both...are good" = las dos opciones son buenas. Both + plural para dos elementos. "Neither option fits" = ninguna de las dos. Neither + singular (negativo de both).
13. little / a few / little / a few / both / a lot of / little / a — "sleep" es incontable y el contexto es negativo little sleep (casi nada). "meetings" es contable y el número es pequeño a few meetings (algunas). "time" es incontable y es negativo little time (casi nada). "mistakes" es contable a few mistakes (algunos errores). Para el contexto de "los dos / todos mis colegas" both (o all si son más de dos). "traffic" es incontable en inglés a lot of traffic (mucho tráfico). No "many traffic". "energy" es incontable y el contexto es negativo little energy. "a better balance" artículo indefinido con sustantivo contable singular.
14. a lot of / a few / Many / much / a lot of — "dedication" es incontable en afirmativa a lot of dedication. "strategies" es contable a few good strategies (algunas, positivo). "students" es contable en afirmativa Many students (o A lot of students). "money" es incontable much money (en negativa) o a lot of money. "resources" es contable en afirmativa a lot of free resources (o lots of / many).
15. I have a lot of grammar books but only a few apps that I actually use regularly. — a few + contable plural (algunos), a lot of / many + contable plural (muchos). Ambos son correctos en afirmativas.
16. I have too much work this week. I don't have enough time to study every day. — Too much + incontable / too many + contable. Not enough + sustantivo (sin artículo): not enough time.
17. Few people in my town speak English well. However, I have a few close friends who can help me practise. — Few = casi ninguno (situación negativa). A few = algunos (situación positiva o neutra).
18. Both English and Korean have helped me connect with people from different cultures. Every lesson teaches me something new. — Both + two items (los dos); Every + singular noun (énfasis en el grupo completo, cada uno).
19. I have very little free time during the week, but I try to study a little every day. On weekends I have a lot of time to practise. — little/a little para incontables (time), few/a few para contables (hours). little = negativo, a little = positivo.
20. I have a few good textbooks and a lot of online resources. I have too many apps on my phone but not enough focus to use them all. — Combina cuantificadores: a few + contable, a lot of + contable/incontable, too many + contable, enough + sustantivo.
21. Both classroom study and self-study have their advantages. Neither method is perfect on its own — you need both. — Both = los dos son buenos. Either = cualquiera de los dos. Neither = ninguno de los dos.
